a message from our Executive Director

This past year has been one of significant change. Around the world, countries that have long been champions of building a healthier and more prosperous future have increasingly turned inward, even as global crises and conflicts continue to escalate. Here at home, the 2025 federal election brought a new Prime Minister and more than 100 new parliamentarians to Ottawa.

Amid shifting priorities and a rapidly changing global landscape, business as usual will not suffice. Meeting today's challenges will require innovative solutions, renewed leadership, and strong partnerships. Together, we can build a better world and generate the political will needed to end extreme poverty.

In this Parliamentarian's Year in Review, we recognize and celebrate the commitment demonstrated by parliamentarians across Canada over the past year. Your leadership, engagement, and actions – big and small – have contributed to advancing the shared vision of a world free from extreme poverty.

The year 2025 brought complex challenges, and 2026 will undoubtedly present new ones. Yet I remain confident that everyday Canadians, Members of Parliament, and Senators alike will continue to rise to the moment. With your continued leadership and collaboration, progress is possible when we work together.

Taryn Russell,
Executive Director

about Results Canada

Results Canada is a non-profit, non-partisan, grassroots advocacy organization that mobilizes everyday people to generate the political will to end extreme poverty. We inform, advocate, and gather support for programs, policies, and solutions that directly improve health, education, and economic opportunities for everyone.

Our strength comes from our volunteer advocates. Living across Canada, our grassroots advocates are committed to seeing a world without poverty and ceaselessly take action to make their vision a reality. They connect with parliamentarians to spur action to ensure that no one suffers or dies from preventable diseases or lack of opportunities because of who they are and where they were born.

bringing parliamentarians together

Results Canada is thrilled to continue being the co-secretariat of the Global Cooperation Caucus (GCC). The GCC was formalized in 2023, when five MPs from all parties came together to learn and discuss Canada's role in the world, and to take action. The GCC is a forum where parliamentarians can engage with Canadian and international experts on critical global issues. Since 2023, the GCC has heard from senior members of the World Bank about development financing; members of the youth-led, Canadian-based Refugee Education Council about the critical importance of education continuing through emergencies; and many other timely topics.

Thank you to our incredible cochairs for this parliamentary session, Sen. Suze Youance, MP Lianne Rood, MP Andréanne Larouche, and MP Gord Johns.

Thank you to MP Fares Al Soud, MP Dave Epp, Hon. Greg Fergus, Sen. Katherine Hay, MP Gord Johns, Hon. Mike Lake, MP Andréanne Larouche, MP Yasir Naqvi, MP Jacques Ramsay, MP Lianne Rood, Hon. Randeep Sarai, and Sen. Suze Youance for joining our November and December meetings to discuss the trajectory of Canada's Official Development Assistance, and connections between international trade and international development.

Thank you to our outgoing cochairs, MP Stéphane Bergeron, MP Dave Epp, Hon. Arielle Kayabaga, MP Heather McPherson, and MP Mike Morrice, for your inspiring dedication to building a world without poverty.

To learn more about the Global Cooperation Caucus or receive details on our next meeting, contact us at: parl@resultscanada.ca.

#TogetherWeLead

In 2025, Results Canada launched our #TogetherWeLead campaign. Our world has changed dramatically over the course of 2025. Climate change, conflicts, economic instability, and the dismantling of USAID have threatened the lives of millions around the world and jeopardized decades of hard-won progress toward ending extreme poverty worldwide.

Amid this uncertainty, one reality has remained constant: the need for Canadian global leadership. Canada's strength lies in our ability to unite global partners in supporting the most marginalized and remaining committed to global solutions. For decades and across different governments, Canada has provided leadership in crucial moments, from helping to end apartheid in South Africa, to standing up for the health and rights of women and girls around the world through the Feminist International Assistance Policy.

This cross-party consensus of supporting democracy, human rights, and global health has been crucial in shaping Canada's role in the world and in benefitting our own economy and stability.

meeting the moment

In January, US President Donald Trump froze US international assistance spending and began the dismantling of USAID. These cuts threaten millions of lives around the world and jeopardize decades of progress in eradicating deadly diseases and ending global poverty. Thank you to MP Parm Bains, Sen. Andrew Cardozo, and MP Andréanne Larouche for meeting with us to discuss the devastating impacts of this and how Canada can step up to meet the moment.

In February, Results Canada co-hosted an event with Lieutenant-General (ret'd) the Honourable Roméo Dallaire, to shine a spotlight on the importance of ensuring children living in conflict and emergency settings have access to quality education. During this event, experts discussed how education systems can be strengthened to promote social cohesion, conflict resolution, and the healing and recovery of children impacted by crisis.

This event was held in partnership with the Dallaire Institute for Children, Peace and Security, the Global Partnership for Education, and the Canadian International Education Policy Working Group (CIEPWG), a coalition of over 24 international development and humanitarian organizations working to improve access to quality education for all children. Thank you to our cohosts Sen. Mohammed Al-Zaibak, Sen. Peter Boehm, Sen. Mary Coyle, and Sen. Yuen Pau Woo and to Sen. Donna Dasko, Sen. Amina Gerba, Sen. Kim Pate, Sen. Rebecca Patterson, and Sen. Paulette Senior for joining us.

Canada also has a critical role to play in leveraging its influence, leadership, and political capital at international financing institutions like the World Bank, ensuring that its financial impact is maximized while placing marginalized communities and their needs at the centre. Thank you Sen. Tony Loffreda for meeting with Results Canada, Results US, and WACI Health – all part of our ACTION Global Health Advocacy Partnership – to discuss how Canada can engage with the World Bank to catalyze innovative financing for international development.

a better world

This spring, Results Canada volunteers flipped the script on election campaigns, and door knocked local campaign offices. Volunteer advocates from across Canada used our Election Toolkit to take action and let candidates campaigning to be their MP know that everyday people in Canada care about building a better, healthier world.

By attending all-candidate forums, dropping by campaign offices, and talking to candidates and canvassers, Results Canada volunteers and partners highlighted their pride in Canadian international assistance investments which have helped to:

- cut child mortality in half since 2000;
- eradicate polio almost everywhere in the world; and
- lift over 1 billion people out of extreme poverty since 2000.

#FeedOurFuture

Nutrition is one of the most cost-effective investments to build a better world. Each dollar invested in fighting malnutrition can generate a staggering $23 return! It is not only the right thing to do, but a strategic opportunity.

In 2025, the Government of Canada seized this opportunity. In February, Hon. Ahmed Hussen announced an investment of \$360.6 million over six years into Nutrition International. And, in September, Hon. Randeep Sarai announced a \$78 million investment in the Child Nutrition Fund.

By investing in nutrition, Canada will help fight stunting, severe wasting, and anemia and give more children and mothers the chance to survive and thrive.

“Our responsibilities don’t end at our borders. Our compassion and actions can help share a more just, peaceful, and sustainable world for everyone... I encourage others to join us to help ensure that children around the world get the healthy food they need. Because when we invest in child nutrition, we invest in a more prosperous world for us all.”

– Hon. Randeep Sarai

In October, Results, alongside Action Against Hunger and CanWaCH, held a parliamentary reception to highlight Canada’s continued commitment and leadership on global nutrition, especially in protecting the health of women and children. Thank you to our host MP Yasir Naqvi, and to MP Wade Chang, MP Madeleine Chenette, MP Michael Coteau, MP Marianne Dandurand, MP Claude Guay, Hon. Ahmed Hussen, MP Natilien Joseph, Hon. Mike Lake, MP Linda Lapointe, MP Andréanne Larouche, MP Marie-Gabrielle Ménard, MP Dominique O’Rourke, and Hon. Judy Sgro for joining us.

Thank you to MP Fares Al-Soud, MP Chak Au, MP Parm Bains, Sen. Andrew Cardozo, MP Heather McPherson, Hon. Rob Oliphant, MP Connie Cody, MP Bruce Fanjoy, MP Lianne Rood, MP Jake Sawatzky, and MP Anita Vandenberg for meeting with us to discuss the urgent need for Canada to continue the fight to end global malnutrition.

immunizing for our future

results

In the second half of 2024, Results Canada launched the #ForOurFuture campaign, calling on Canada to step up and make bold commitments to ensure that every child has access to lifesaving vaccines.

Throughout this campaign, Results Canada advocates sent thousands of letters and emails to MPs, met with decision-makers, published letters to the editor, and even shared personal testimonies about how immunization has shaped their lives, calling for continued Canadian support for global immunization.

In March 2025, the Government of Canada responded to this call by making a pledge of \$675 million over five years to Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance. This investment will protect children from preventable deaths by increasing access to vaccines for malaria, dengue, and tuberculosis, and will also help eliminate cervical cancer by improving access to HPV vaccines. Several Results volunteers and Fellows who advocate for this pledge were able to attend and participate in the official announcement. Thank you, Hon. Ahmed Hussen, for continuing Canada's global leadership.

Thank you, Hon. Mike Lake, for drawing attention in the House of Commons to how close we are to finally ending polio worldwide:

Watch
Statement

"Today, we are closer than ever to ending polio once and for all. Working together, we will win. Along the way, every one of us will be individually better for having taken part in the fight."

– Hon. Mike Lake

lighting up red for TB

Every year on March 24, Results Canada commemorates World Tuberculosis Day – a day to stand in solidarity with the millions of people around the world who are affected by tuberculosis (TB) and call for increased efforts to eliminate the world's deadliest infectious disease.

Results volunteer advocates requested that landmarks in their communities be lit red to commemorate World TB Day. Because of their efforts, a record 57 monuments across Canada shone bright on the day to raise awareness for TB and highlight the work that remains to eliminate this deadly disease.

#LeadOnTB

This autumn, 66 committed tuberculosis advocates from across Canada joined us in Ottawa for our #LeadOnTB Hill Day to meet with dozens of MPs and Senators from all parties to raise support for renewed investments in our fight to end TB, through the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, TB Alliance, FIND, and Unitaid. By the end of October, Results volunteers met with 28 parliamentarians!

Thank you to: MP Scott Aitchison, MP Fares Al-Soud, MP Parm Bains, Sen. Bev Busson, MP Burton Bailey, MP Wade Chang, MP Maggie Chi, MP Marc Dalton, MP Dave Epp, MP Jessica Fancy-Landry, MP Peter Fragiskatos, MP Sukhman Gill, MP Lori Idlout, MP Helena Jaczek, MP Rhonda Kirkland, MP Marie-France Lalonde, MP Michael Ma, MP Elizabeth May, MP Heather McPherson, MP Billy Morin, MP Taleeb Noormohamed, MP Marcus Powlowski, MP Aslam Rana, MP Jacques Ramsay, Sen. Mohamed-Iqbal Ravalia, MP Rachael Thomas, MP Anita Vandenbeld, and MP Salma Zahid for meeting with us.

Thank you to MP Jacques Ramsay for welcoming TB advocates from across Canada and our world to Parliament:

“Canada’s continued leadership is critically needed to end this deadly disease. Join me in thanking the advocates here today who are working tirelessly to achieve [a world without TB].”

– MP Jacques Ramsay

Watch
Statement

In January, Stop TB Canada, with support from Results Canada and other partners, released its new report: Access to Essential Tuberculosis Medicines in Canada: Insights from a National Survey of Healthcare Providers providing a snapshot of the barriers limiting timely access to TB treatment across Canada.

Thank you to MP Lori Idlout for her powerful statement highlighted in the report:

“I hope that these recommendations will be implemented to improve access to essential TB medicines for all people in Canada [and that] more investments will be made to address the social determinants of health, such as housing, so that communities like Nunavummiut, that have the highest rates of TB infection in Canada do not contract this disease.”

#LeadOnTB

In September, parliamentarians from across party lines joined us for a #LeadOnTB reception to reflect on Canada's efforts in the quest to end TB here at home and around the world. We were thrilled to be joined by powerful TB survivor and advocate, Ani Herna Sari, who travelled to Ottawa from Indonesia to share her story of living with – and defeating – tuberculosis.

"This pattern holds my story. Shattered glass, breaking free of shame. Bitter pills, blooming flowers – my pain became my purpose. We must end tuberculosis. We cannot stop now."

Thank you to our cohosts MP Ziad Aboultaif, MP Gord Johns, and MP Salma Zahid for sharing your words and commitment to ending TB with us.

Thank you to MP Parm Bains, Hon. Buckley Belanger, MP Wade Chang, MP Will Greaves, MP Natilien Joseph, and MP Andréanne Larouche for joining us and stepping up to #LeadOnTB.

Through months of sustained advocacy, Results, our volunteers, and partners helped to secure a $1.02B investment over three years into the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria. While this represents a cut from Canada's previous pledge and not the level of investment we had hoped for, we remain confident Canada will continue to champion global health and human rights on the world stage at this difficult and uncertain time.

volunteer retreat

At the end of May, our volunteer advocates from across the country gathered in Ottawa for the #TogetherWeLead Volunteer Retreat. The retreat helped to provide them with the tools, knowledge, and connections necessary to lead effective and meaningful advocacy, both with Results Canada and wherever their lives will take them.

The weekend was full of powerful conversations that encouraged us to think creatively and reminded us of our shared goal: to show Canadian decision-makers that everyday people in Canada care about ending extreme poverty.

Thank you, MP Anita Vandenberg, for participating in a fireside chat with our volunteers and helping them understand the current political context and providing insights on how to engage parliamentarians. We're grateful for your continued support.

making an impact

From engaging in pre-budget consultations to attending events with parliamentarians, Results Canada volunteers continue to advocate and work across party lines to generate the political will end extreme poverty around the world.

The backbone of our network are our Volunteer Ambassadors and group leaders, who coordinate and inspire over 500 volunteer advocates across Canada. They lead by example and support their peers to become strong and passionate advocates for global issues.

The impact of our volunteer advocates' efforts have been highlighted in 25 publications across Canada, include the Toronto Star, The Hill Times, and Le Devoir. This year, our volunteers submitted over 2,000 letters to the editor and op-eds, with over 150 published. In these letters, they called for continued Canadian leadership in the fight to end tuberculosis, to ensure women and children have access to the nutrition they need to thrive, and more.

Thank you, MP Stephanie Kusie, for meeting with Results Canada's Calgary group this July.

Thank you, MP Tony Baldinelli, MP Dave Epp, MP Dalwinder Gill, MP Pat Kelly, Hon. Mike Lake, MP Greg McLean, Hon. Pierre Poilievre, and MP Rachael Thomas for taking the time to speak with us in Calgary about the incredible work of Results volunteer advocates and the urgent need for Canada to grow as a global nutrition champion.

on the road in BC!

In November, Results hosted a discussion in Surrey, BC entitled “A Hunger for Change: A Canadian Call to End Global Malnutrition.” We brought together two dozen advocates, volunteers, and community members to raise awareness about the global malnutrition crisis and to call on Canada to step up as a nutrition leader.

We were joined by representatives from the Canadian Foodgrains Bank and the Grandmothers Advocacy Network for a panel discussion where participants learned about Canada’s longstanding legacy of supporting nutrition and the critical need for Canada to continue this leadership as our world faces overlapping and intensifying crises.

Thank you, MP Chak Au, for meeting with Results Canada’s Vancouver group to discuss the urgent need for Canadian leadership in nutrition.

“My favourite advocacy moment was the Results Canada Surrey event, A Hunger for Change ... It was inspiring to meet other individuals across Greater Vancouver, including fellow Grade 11 students and university students, who share the same passion for global equity. It was an honour to lead attendees through an advocacy activity, where we wrote postcards to MPs about the effects of malnutrition. It was so meaningful. Watching everyone come together to raise their voices reminded me of humanity’s greatest strength: the power of collective action. It was motivating and uplifting, and it was definitely one of the highlights of my year”.

celebrating five years of the Results Fellowship Program

In the fifth year of Results Canada's Fellowship Program, two carefully selected cohorts were brought together to engage on global issues and grow as leaders and advocates. These 82 Fellows met monthly and took action weekly to learn about solutions to our world's malnutrition crisis and the critical importance of vaccination in our fight against our world's deadliest diseases. Through this program, Fellows from across Canada published letters to the editor and op-eds, met with parliamentarians, and learned how to use digital advocacy tools to engage with decision-makers.

"This year, I met with five MPs and couple more decision-makers in Ottawa and as always it had been fantastic and invigorating. Sharing our recommendations, evidence-based asks, and the engagement by leaders on issues like health, nutrition and education in what we care about is a gift. It is a moment when our preparation, our passion, and our purpose meet, and it provides reassuring evidence that you can make a difference in policy and investment decisions."

- Zainab Khan, 2025 Fellow

This year, Fellows engaged with: Sen. Michele Audette, MP Parm Bains, Sen. Victor Boudreau, Sen. Sharon Burey, Sen. Andrew Cardozo, Sen. Bernadette Clement, Hon. Rebecca Chartrand, Hon. Julie Dabrusin, MP John-Paul Danko, Sen. Marty Deacon, Hon. Mona Fortier, MP Peter Fragiskatos, Hon. Hedy Fry, MP Lisa Hepfner, MP Anthony Housefather, Hon. Ahmed Hussen, Hon. Arielle Kayabaga, MP Helena Konanz, MP Greg McLean, Sen. Marilou McPhedran, Hon. David McGuinty, MP Marie-Gabrielle Menard, Hon. Marc Miller, Sen. Farah Mohamed, Sen. Rosemary Moodie, MP Yasir Naqvi, Hon. Ginette Petitpas Taylor, Hon. Maninder Sidhu, MP Sonia Sidhu, MP Anita Vandenbeld, and Sen. Yuen Pau Woo.

Several Fellows were thrilled to meet MP Yasir Naqvi in person at a parliamentary reception in October.

looking ahead to 2026

results

We recognize that, now more than ever, governments and parliamentarians are balancing competing priorities – both domestic and global. Yet even in this context, there remains a strong and urgent case for Canadian leadership in global cooperation and poverty eradication.

Recent data show that, for the first time this century, the number of children under five who are expected to die has risen, largely due to sharp reductions in international health funding – reversing decades of hard-won gains.

This moment is a critical inflection point: without renewed commitment, millions more lives could be lost and progress toward ending poverty and disease stalled. But with targeted investments and smart, innovative approaches, we can stretch every dollar further and accelerate impact even in a constrained fiscal environment.

Innovations, from vaccines requiring fewer doses to data-driven health interventions, can deliver greater impact per dollar and expand reach to underserved communities.

Canada has a proud legacy in development cooperation and global health in particular. By doubling down on innovation, championing cost-effective solutions, and sustaining our global development commitments, we can help ensure that our contributions not only uphold our values but translate into measurable, life-saving impact around the world.

This is not just a moral imperative – it is a strategic choice that reinforces Canada's role as a trusted global partner at a time when leadership matters most. Strategic partnerships can strengthen global health security to protect us from future pandemics, fuel Canadian research excellence to tackle some of the world's thorniest challenges, and build the next generation of trading partners and allies.

In 2026, we are committed to supporting you, the parliamentarians who care about building a healthier and fairer world, with the knowledge and tools you need to build support in Parliament and in your community. 2026 is an opportunity for us all, and we look forward to seizing it together.
